

SIX MEN ACCEPTED

For Service in the Philippines in the 44th Infantry U. S. V.

AT RECRUITING STATION

Station Will be Open in Wichita for Ten Days.

Lieutenant Ralph Ingalls of the Forty-fourth Infantry, United States Volunteers, the regiment being recruited now for service in the Philippines, says Wichita is one of the best points he has struck. Ten applications for enlistment were made at the station in the city hall yesterday, out of which six passed the examination and were accepted. Dr. J. Z. Hoffman, the examining surgeon, says they are fine men physically and fine looking. Ten applications for enlistment is considered extraordinary for the first day's work. On two different occasions at Kansas City this summer, with a column a day in the newspapers about the work of the recruiting station, the number ran no higher than six applications per day, with four accepted. The enlistment here is not due to any excitement either. There is no enthusiasm boiling from the reports of engagements or insults to the flag. It is also a busy time and nobody is resorting to army life as a matter of self protection. It is due to bed rock patriotism.

Lieutenant Ingalls will be here as his orders read now, for ten days yet, and within a month he says if all the stations enlist recruits as fast as the Wichita point the regiment will be full. The recruiting station is in the basement of the city building on South Main street. It has not been determined yet just when the Forty-fourth will go to the Philippines, but it will be probably about the first of December. The men accepted and sworn in yesterday are:

Arthur Burgess, who is in charge of the squad.
Robert Day, Mr. Day has seen service.
Robinson Wyckoff.
Leslie W. Malina.
Clyde C. McIntyre.
Willis E. Park.

NOBEL PRIZE FOR 20 YEARS.
I have been troubled for the last twenty years with bronchial affection, and at times have been bedfast. Have tried a great many cough remedies, but found no relief until I used Foley's Honey and Tar. I can honestly recommend Foley's Honey and Tar as a quick relief, reliable, pleasant to take and a sure cure for diseases of the throat and lungs. Minerva Smith, 44 Washington Ave., Danville, Ill. WILL NOT LEAVE WICHITA

Mr. A. S. Boston Will Probably Engage in Other Business.
Mr. A. S. Boston, who has sold his lease of the Occidental to Colonel Billings of Guthrie, has given possession to Colonel and Mrs. Billings and yesterday rented rooms in the Butler block. Mr. Boston says he will probably engage in other business in this city, as he is highly pleased with the town. Mr. Boston had made a success of the Occidental and raised his reputation considerably while he had charge. He says he simply wanted to retire from the hotel business in which he had been engaged so long in Oklahoma and here. He has not decided as yet just what business he will engage in here.

DISCOVERED BY A WOMAN.

Another great discovery has been made, and that too, by a lady in this country. "Disease fastened its clutches upon her and for seven years she withstood its severest tests, but her vital organs were undermined and death seemed imminent. For three months she coughed incessantly, and could not sleep. She finally discovered a way to recovery, by purchasing of a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, and was so much relieved on taking first dose, that she slept all night; and with two bottles she has been absolutely cured. Her name is Mrs. Luther Lutz." Thus writes W. C. Hammick & Co., of Shelby, N. C. Trial bottles free at G. Gehring's drug store, Regular size 50c and $1.00. Every bottle guaranteed.

ABOUT DEEP PLOWING

Wichita Farmers Followed Plowing to be shallow plowing and early planting. To the Editor of the Eagle: The article in the Weekly Eagle September 1, under the heading "One Big Wheat Yield," interested me very much. The farmers of Sedgewick county will be glad if Mr. W. E. Smith will give more specific information as to his method of obtaining his big yield of wheat. The rule of the farmers of the southwestern portion of Sedgewick county has been to plow early and plow shallow. Under this rule the theory has been early plowing enables the farmer to get the top soil in good till, and by shallow plowing to leave a firm bed for the wheat roots to attach to so as to prevent winter killing. If Mr. Smith will tell us how he considers deep plowing and how much and what kind of cultivation he gives the

How Mrs. Pinkham HELPED MRS. GOODEN.

[LETTER TO MRS. PINKHAM NO. 12,721]
"I am very grateful to you for your kindness and the interest you have taken in me, and truly believe your medicines and advice are worth more to a woman than all the doctors in the world. For years I had female troubles and did nothing for them. Of course I became no better and finally broke down entirely. My troubles began with inflammation and hemorrhages from the kidneys, then inflammation, congestion and falling of the womb and inflammation of ovaries.
"I underwent local treatment every day for some time; then after nearly two months the doctor gave me permission to go back to work. I went back, but in less than a week was compelled to give up and go to bed. On breaking down the second time, I decided to let doctors and their medicine alone and try your remedies. Before the first bottle was gone I felt the effects of it. Three bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and a package of her Sanative Wash did me more good than all the doctors' treatments and medicine.
"The first remark that greets me now is 'How much better you look!' and you may be sure I never hesitate to tell the cause of my health."—Mrs. E. J. GOODEN, ACKLEY, LA.

RUDOLPH KREITZER INSANE

Held to Have Been Caused by Intemperance and Old Age.
Rudolph Kreitzer, aged 74, was yesterday adjudged insane. He was born in Russia, but has lived in this country for several years. He was a blacksmith and poor. His insanity is said to have been caused by intemperance and old age. He had a brother who committed suicide a few years ago, which is the only mark of insanity found in his family. He has a wife and five children.

FROM ALL AMERICA

Prominent Adventlists Arrive for Camp Conference.

MEETING BEGINS TODAY

Nearly Two Hundred Tents Spread in Riverside.

Riverside park never saw such a wilderness of white tents as is spread in the south side today. The preparatory movements for the Kansas conference of the Seventh Day Adventists. There are probably 150 or 200 campers' tents besides the three enormous tabernacles where services will be held. Sermons will be preached in English, German and Scandinavian and services held in all these languages as well.

The meeting will last probably two weeks and Adventists are expected from all parts of the United States. Beginning today a half rate will be in effect on all roads leading to Wichita and a big crowd is expected from all parts of Kansas.

At this meeting, which transacts the conference business of the church in Kansas, the doctrines and belief of the Adventists will be fully explained and argued from the pulpits in German and Scandinavian, as well as English. The officials have already caused the distribution of a large number of tracts, as well as different forms of advertisements for the meeting.

Elder I. H. Evans of New York City, president of the Seventh Day Adventist foreign mission board, arrived yesterday and will attend the camp meeting in South Riverside park.

Large crowds are expected to arrive today, as this is the first day of the cheap rates on the railroads. The first public service will be held tonight, when an address of welcome will be delivered. Everybody is cordially invited to attend this service.

Elder Martensen, a Scandinavian Seventh Day Adventist minister, arrived over the Rock Island last night. Among the late arrivals are: Elder R. M. Kilgore of Grayville, Tenn., the superintendent of the district comprising Colorado, Arkansas, Missouri, Arkansas, Indian Territory, Oklahoma, Texas, Mexico and Arizona; also Elder E. H. Curtis of Oberlin, Kan. But few were expected until today, as the one-half fare rate given on all roads in Kansas is only on the 7th and 8th.

HE FOOLED THE SURGEONS.

All doctors told Renick Hamilton, of West Jefferson, O., after suffering eighteen months from Rectal Fistula, he would die unless a costly operation was performed; but he cured himself with five boxes of Bucklin's Arnica Salve, the sure cure on earth, and the best Salve in the world. 25 cents a box. Sold by G. Gehring, druggist.

COMING LOCAL EVENTS.

Ladies of the Macabees will hold their regular review Thursday, September 7, at 2 o'clock, in the hall over Dunbar's parlors. A good attendance is desired.
On Friday evening of this week the Ladies of the G. A. R. will give a social at Hyde park. There will be music, games and refreshments. An enjoyable evening is promised all who may attend. The circle quilt will be disposed of and all ladies interested are urged to be present.

DOUGLAS ON TRUSTS

Ex-Wichitan Thinks Constitutional Amendment Necessary

REPUBLICANS SHOULD LEAD

In an Effort to Curtail the Power of a Great Evil.

Geo. L. Douglas, formerly of Wichita but who is gaining much favorable comment in Chicago as a writer on economic questions, has written an article, advocating the suppression of trusts by Republican national legislation. Following are Douglas' views:

"No practical man for an instant assumes that all the great corporations ever will be or ever should be suppressed. What reasonable men contend for is the full and effective regulation in the interest and for the protection of the public, and the summary suppression of every such organization which refuses to be regulated.

"Prior to 1894, when the sugar trust case (United States versus Knight et al., 156 United States rep., page 1) was decided by the supreme court, it had been assumed that under the power to regulate interstate commerce his federal government had jurisdiction to suppress trusts and combinations of the character of the one involved in that case. But although a consolidation of corporations and companies controlling 85 per cent of the business of sugar refining of this country was admitted that the new corporation could practically monopolize the sugar trade, yet the court held that as the consolidation effected interstate commerce only incidentally and indirectly, it was not within the purpose of the anti-trust act, and did not present a case within the power of Congress to regulate commerce. The court distinguished between the power to suppress monopoly of interstate commerce and the power to suppress monopoly of manufacturers where interstate commerce was only incidental and sugar trust was not disturbed.

"In a vigorous dissenting opinion Justice Harlan insisted that a corporation controlling not only the business of refining sugar but the price of sugar throughout the entire country, necessarily affected the people of all the states directly, and that the remedy for such evil must be found, if at all, in the general government.

"Conservative Americans agree with Justice Harlan that the power to deal with the 'trust' problem should be possessed by the general government if it is ever to be effectively exercised. At present the power is divided among forty-five state legislatures, with a restraint of power in Congress applicable where interstate commerce is directly involved.

"No doubt Congress could enact a law which would cause annoyance to some of the trusts, but it is absolutely powerless to deal with the trust question comprehensively. State legislatures may deal with some phases of the question, but it is effectively powerless to deal with the first thing to be done is to get the power to deal with the problem definitely lodged somewhere.

"At the present juncture the rational and practical thing for Congress to do would seem to be: First, to accept the court as to the existing lack of power in the federal government to deal effectively with the trust question; second to submit to the states for ratification and amendment to the Constitution, conferring on congress the necessary power to deal with it. By 'necessary power' I mean the power which Justice Harlan believed the government already had, but which the majority of the Justices decided that it did not have.

"If this proposition is brought forward by the party in power it is assumed that the requisite two-thirds vote could be secured for the submission of a carefully drawn amendment. The form and scope of such amendment will call for deliberate study. But that an amendment can be framed conferring the power upon the national government to deal with all those phases of the trust evil which overlook state lines without curtailing the powers of the states in reference to essentially local concerns no intelligent man will doubt.

"The submission of such an amendment by the incoming congress would greatly simplify the situation. By bringing forward the proposition, Republicans will have taken the lead in doing the only thing practicable looking to the ultimate solution of the trust question, and when the nation is convinced of the need of an amendment to the constitution, it will be a point to the fact with immeasurable satisfaction. It would not only place them on the right side of the question, but it would largely if not altogether eliminate the issue from the campaigns of 1900. For when the proposed amendment is submitted for ratification, the question would then become purely a local issue in each state. In other words, by submitting the proposition, congress for the time being at least, will have transferred the trust issue from the field of national politics to the local legislative districts all over the country.

"Such a course looks to be the promptest and only possible solution of the problem. If the people of the states are as interested as they profess to be, favorable action upon the amendment by the necessary three-fourths of the states could be secured by the spring of 1901, in ample time for the congress chosen in 1901 to act under it.

"Repugnance in congress should face this question squarely and deal with it upon a broad and comprehensive basis. They can ward off all reasoning criticism, while at the same time laying the foundation for intelligent action in the future. If they do nothing the party will be forced into a more desperate platform for the coming election than the Bryan Democracy—a competition in which the Democracy is certain to have the advantage.

"If the trusts are ever to be regulated they must be regulated by the general government and with a firm hand as it holds over the national banks. If the trusts are to be suppressed the general government must take hold of them and wind them up as vigorously as it wound up the business end of the Mormon church. For ten years congress and the state legislatures have been firing blank cartridges, while the trusts have flourished as never before. It is time to quit wasting powder.

"The trust advocates argue that the proposition for federal control should not be considered unless accompanied by specifications showing just how the control is to be exercised. That argument is a transparent scheme to involve the decision in a cloud of details and sidetrack the main issue. Statutory details will be worked out when the power is
